

MOTOR HISTORY IN ROAD SPEED MADE IN SAVANNAH RACES

Bruce-Brown and Mulford
Records Show American Superiority.

How Bruce-Brown Won

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 1.—David Bruce-Brown gives this description of his winning the Grand Prize race: "I won yesterday's race by driving like the devil in the early part of the race. I had to make nine tire changes, and had to put in a new bolt in the front axle. There was no consistency in the race I drove. I was up against it, and wanted to make better my victory than I did last year. I did it by driving furiously in the early stages and then easing down toward the latter part. I saw Hearne was going like mad, running away with everything, so I just dropped in to follow him and beat him."

By HARRY WARD.

Motor racing history was made this week at Savannah, when two American drivers hung up new world's records for automobile road racing and defeated the pick of foreign drivers. Following Ralph Mulford's initial victory Monday in the Vanderbilt Cup race, David Bruce-Brown, a twenty-four-year-old millionaire driver of New York, yesterday, for the second time, won the International Grand Prize race. Driving a Fiat car, he covered 411.36 miles in 32 minutes 23.15 seconds, an average speed of 74.45 miles an hour, a new world's record for road racing.

Closely pressing the winner came Eddie Hearne, another millionaire amateur, driving a Benz car, who finished second in 33 minutes 37.77 seconds, while Ralph DePalma, in a Mercedes, who finished third in the Vanderbilt, was third, his time being 34 minutes 40.8 seconds. The showing of the American cars was disappointing, Louis Disbrow's Pope-Hartford being the only one to finish, fifth place going to him, the time being 38 minutes 44 seconds. The two Abbott-Detroit's, however, were still running when the race was declared finished.

Bruce-Brown took the lead in the twentieth lap and a battle royal ensued between Hearne, Mulford and DePalma to wrest this advantage from him. Mulford was right up in the running until the last lap, when his car developed steering gear trouble and he was thrown out of the race. DePalma then jumped into third position and maintained it to the finish.

The much-touted foreign pair, Victor Hemery and Louis Wagner, Italian and French, respectively, were hardly in the running, the former retiring on the seventh lap, while Wagner managed to keep the route until the end of the fifteenth lap. Remembering their great speed duel in the Grand Prix race at Pau in 1908, the thousands who thronged the course expected this pair to go out and ride the hardest off the other drivers. Hemery had the honor of making the fastest lap. On the fifth round he made the seventeen-mile circuit in 46 seconds, which was a fraction more than eighty-two miles an hour.

By winning the big race yesterday Bruce-Brown enjoys the distinction with Harry Grant of winning a famous classic twice in succession. Grant won the Vanderbilt in 1907 and 1908. Bruce-Brown was born in New York in 1887. He first raced in 1907, and that year broke the world's one-hour straightaway mark at Daytona, Fla., lowering it to 33.5 seconds. The following year he clipped three-fifths of a second from the record. Since then he has made numerous other records, his greatest achievement being the winning of last year's Grand Prize race.

It is expected a large number of motorists will be on hand to witness the opening of the new motor supply shop known as Reed's, 1218 Connecticut avenue. Manager W. E. Elkins Reed has sent out invitations to the motoring fraternity to attend the opening of what is conceded to be one of the finest motor supply establishments in the country. T. Lamar Jackson, agent for Stevens-Duryea cars, has taken part of the store and will display several 1912 models. Manager Reed has spared no expense in fitting up the new establishment, and constantly carries in stock a full line of foreign and domestic automobile supplies and novelties.

Members of the Society of Automobile Engineers to the number of sixty-five, who have been inspecting the motor car factories in England and France, are on the ocean homeward bound. According to cable advices the trip has been successful in every way. It is believed that international automobile industry will receive a great stimulus from the interchange of scientific and commercial knowledge brought about on the tour now ending.

Over 4,000 Ford cars were shipped from the Ford factory in Detroit during November, according to advices received today by Miller Bros., Ford agents here. Ford delivery wagons made up a large portion of the shipments.
